DECISION DATE:

DECISION

I. INTRODUCTION

[1] Marcel Pelletier ("Pelletier") lodged a complaint¹ pursuant to section 3-36 of the SEA

¹Complaint received by Occupational Health and Safety, Ministry of Labour Relations and Workplace Safety, Government of Saskatchewan ("OHS") on May 14, 2022 alleging that Touchwood Agency Tribal Council ("TATC") had taken discriminatory action against him for a reason mentioned in section 3-35 of the SEA.

[2] An OHS officer decided TATC had taken discriminatory action against Pelletier for a reason mentioned in section 3-35 of the SEA (the "Decision") and served the Decision and Notice of Contravention Number 1-00023266 ("NoC") on TATC on September 16, 2022.

[3] On October 24, 2022, TATC appealed the Decision (the "Appeal").

[4] The Saskatchewan Labour Relations Board appointed me as the adjudicator to hear and determine the Appeal.

2. FACTS

[5] At the outset of the scheduled hearing of the Appeal, Pelletier raised a preliminary objection. He argued:

- a) section 3-53(2) of the SEA provides that an appeal pursuant to section 3-53(1) must be commenced by filing a written notice of appeal with the director of OHS within fifteen (15) business days after the date of service of the decision being appealed;
- b) in the matter before me, the Appeal was served outside the time set forth within section 3-53(2) of the SEA; and
- c) as a consequence, I have no jurisdiction to hear the appeal.

[6] Counsel for TATC conceded that the Appeal was filed outside the appeal period set forth within section 3-53(2) of the SEA. However, she argued:

- a) I have the “jurisdiction” to extend the time fixed for filing the Appeal; and
- b) “extenuating” circumstances exist that would establish the basis for my exercise of such jurisdiction.

[7] Counsel for TATC sought to call evidence of such circumstances. Without ruling on her argument, I granted her request to call evidence.

[8] Counsel for TATC tendered Todd Cappo (“Capo”), TATC’s Senior Operations Manager, as its sole witness. He testified:

- a) he is responsible for the overall management of TATC, an organization that provides advisory and program services to four (4) First Nations;
- b) he commenced employment as Senior Operations Manager on September 15, 2022, one day before TATC received the Decision and NoC;
- c) he did not possess the authority to act on the Decision on his own—he needed to consult with and get direction from both TATC’s Human Resources Board and the Chiefs of its member First Nations;
- d) before doing so, he needed to gather more information and consult with legal counsel to understand the matter;
- e) due to COVID complications and difficulties with scheduling, there were delays in meeting with both TATC’s Human Resources Board and the Chiefs of its member First Nations;
- f) once such meetings took place, TATC concluded it should appeal the Decision because:

- i) there had been a breakdown of the relationship between Pelletier and TATC;
and
 - ii) it was “not viable” to bring Pelletier back to work; and
- g) TATC made its decision to appeal as soon as it could be done.

3. ISSUE

[9] The issue here is whether I have the ability to extend the time limit for the Appeal in the circumstances of this case?

4. DECISION

[10] I rule:

- a) I do not have the ability to extend the time limit for the Appeal in the circumstances of this case; and
- b) I have no jurisdiction to hear the Appeal of the Decision.

[11] I dismiss the Appeal.

5.2 ANALYSIS

[13] In the case at hand, OHS served TATC with the Decision and NoC on September 16, 2022. TATC appealed the Decision on October 24, 2022. TATC concedes this was outside the time period imposed by section 3-53(2) of the SEA.

[14] Counsel for TATC argues TATC's delay in filing its appeal:

- a) was neither excessive, nor inordinate;
- b) caused no prejudice to any party; and
- c) ought to be excusable, considering the challenges of a world wide pandemic.

Relying upon *Dishaw v Canadian Office & Professional Employees Union, Local 397*² and Brody v East York Health Unit,³ Counsel for TATC argues I should extend the time for the filing of its Appeal.

[15] I have difficulty with Counsel's reliance on Dishaw and Brody. They are cases dealing with an allegation of delay where there is either no specified limit with respect to delay or a discretion to dismiss an application because of delay. They are distinguishable from the case at hand.

[16] Counsel for TATC also refers me to the *Saskatchewan Employment (Labour Relations Board) Regulations, 2021*⁴ and in particular the following provisions:

Authority to vary time

30(1) On the request of any employer, union, labour organization or other person, the registrar may extend the time fixed by these regulations for filing any Form or document or doing any other thing authorized or required by these regulations, if the period at or within which the matter ought to have been done has not expired.

(2) On the request of any employer, union, labour organization or other person, the executive officer may by order set a further or other time than the time fixed by these regulations for filing any Form or document or doing any other thing authorized or required by these regulations.

²2009 CanLII 507 (SK LRB) at para. 29

⁴R.R.S., c. S-15.1, Reg. 11

(3) The executive officer may issue an order pursuant to subsection (2) whether or not the period at or within which a matter mentioned in that order ought to have been done has expired.

(4) The executive officer may impose any terms and conditions on an order issued pursuant to subsection (2) that the executive officer considers appropriate.

(5) Anything done at or within the time specified by the registrar pursuant to subsection (1) or in an order pursuant to subsection (2) is as valid as if it had been done at or within the time fixed by these regulations.

Non-compliance

35 Non-compliance with these regulations does not render any proceeding void unless the board directs otherwise.

Counsel for TATC argues that same also gives me the authority to extend the time for the filing of its Appeal.

[17] I am not persuaded that the Saskatchewan Employment (Labour Relations Board) Regulations, 2021 help Counsel for TATC. First, they address that which is authorized or required by those regulations. That is not what we are considering in this case. Here we are dealing with section 3-53(2) of the SEA. Second, I am of the view the provisions cited by Counsel for TATC relate to matters of a procedural, rather than a substantial limitation, nature. Section 3-53(2) of the SEA contains a mandatory provision that must be met to perfect an appeal.

[18] An adjudicator appointed pursuant to the SEA only has the authority delegated within the SEA itself. I am of the view any power to extend or waive the time permitted to file an appeal would need to arise from the provisions of the SEA.⁵

⁵ Jordan v. Saskatchewan (Securities Commission), SK CA, March 21, 1968

[19] This issue was considered in *Brady v Jacobs Industrial Services Ltd.*⁶ a decision that addressed the time for appeal of an occupational health and safety report under the SEA. Addressing the time to appeal under sections 3-53 and 3-54, it said:

There is no express provision anywhere in the Saskatchewan Employment Act that gives authority to the adjudicator or to anyone else to extend or waive the time limits for an appeal. s. 4-4(2) says an adjudicator may determine the procedures by which an appeal or hearing is to be conducted. This provision deals only with an adjudicator's ability to control procedural matters in an appeal hearing and does not allow an adjudicator to extend the time for filing the appeal. A delegated power that allows a decision-maker to make rules of practice and procedure does not extend to allowing the decision-maker to alter a statutory time limit: Bassett v. Canada (Government) et al., 1987 CanLii 4873 (SK CA).

s. 4-4(5) says a technical irregularity does not invalidate a proceeding before or by an adjudicator. Failure to comply with a statutory time limit, however, is not a technical irregularity. It is a substantive matter that goes to jurisdiction: Baron Metal Industries Inc. [1999] OLRB Rep May/June 363. Furthermore, at the point the appeal is filed, it is an appeal filed with the Director, so at that point it is not yet a proceeding before or by an adjudicator.

When the Saskatchewan Employment Act came into effect, the case law was clear that time limits are interpreted as mandatory and relief against failure to meet a time limit is not available unless expressly stated in the Act. If the legislature intended there be any relief from the time limit for appeal in s. 3-53(2), it could easily have included an express provision. Indeed, where the legislature intended to provide jurisdiction to waive or extend time limits, it did do so expressly. For example, s.6-49(3)(f) gives an arbitrator power to relieve against breaches of time limits in collective agreements. Similarly, s. 2-93 grants specific authority for the Court of Queen's Bench to extend the time for making an application to set aside an order or judgment. The legislature did not give any similar power to an adjudicator or to anyone else in the case of an appeal under s. 3-53, and I have no authority to imply such authority.⁷

[20] I am in agreement with Brady. There is no express provision in the SEA that would permit me to extend or waive the time limit created by sections 3-53(2).

[21] For the reasons above, I conclude that no relief is available to remedy the late filing of the Appeal in this case.

⁶*Brady v Jacobs Industrial Services Ltd.*, 2016 CanLII 49900 (SK LA)

⁷*Ibid* at para 51-53

[22] Accordingly, I have no jurisdiction to hear the Appeal of the Decision.

[23] The Appeal is dismissed.
